Getting back to the Deck Building

Battle of Souls is an extensible card game where players battle each other in a TCG style combat game using historic warriors such as Samurai, Vikings and many more.

Battle of Souls introduces a unique win condition and evens the playing field for players by focusing on Deck Building skills instead of the “pay to win” mechanics of other games in the TCG genre.

“ We want players to be able to pick up a set box and play knowing they are still on an equal playing field as other players. ”

William Brevard; CEO NO LIMIT GAMES, INC.

NO STARTER DECKS

Every player can purchase a set box which will contain duplicates of every card in the game for that particular warrior group.

(Example: Samurai set box has every Samurai card in the game.

NO RANDOMIZATION

There are no booster packs, no single cards, no rare cards. Every card is available to everyone from the set boxes. This means every player knows what they are getting when they pick up a box.

BASED ON SKILL NOT MONEY

Since all players have the same cards if they have the same set box, then games are now based on deck building skills, instead of expensive rare cards.

INFINITE EXTENSIBILITY

As new warrior sets are released, additional possible deck builds will be made available. Cards will never be banned, and never lose value. The 1st set is as powerful and valuable as the 100th set.

No Limit Games, Inc. Bringing the fun!

Our goal with Battle of Souls is to give players a chance to play a game where it isn't about how much a player's deck might cost. Instead every battle is based on the deck building skills of the players. This is why there are no starter decks, pre-constructed decks, or booster packs for Battle of Souls. Instead all players would purchase a set box for a specific warrior group which will contain all of the cards for that warrior group in one box.
